The Dutch blues rock formation Rob Orlemans & Half Past Midnight has been among the international top of the blues and rock genre for many years. The band has inspired fans around the world with explosive live performances and exceptional musicianship and is a frequent headliner at blues and rock festivals in the Netherlands, the rest of Europe and the US. Rob Orlemans also toured for years with the legendary Curtis Knight, known from Jimi Hendrix, and also recorded several albums with him.

Rob Orlemans is without a doubt the 'face' of the band. With his characteristic style he is called one of the real deal blues rock guitarists. His somewhat lived-in voice and exciting guitar work makes every performance a real happening. The band also consists of drummer Ernst van Ee (Highway Chile, Helloise, Vengeance, Lana Lane) and bassist Piet Tromp, who understand each other perfectly and undoubtedly determine the overall sound. Together with this solid and powerful rhythm section, Orlemans hits the stage full of energy from the first minute and guarantees a dazzling performance.

The most recent album by Rob Orlemans & Half Past Midnight is entitled 'Shake Them Down' (Metal Horse Music&Media/Coast To Coast) and, like the previous albums, it is full of catchy and well-thought-out songs with many rock and blues influences. The album contains twelve studio tracks, including one cover ('Love like a Man') of Ten Years After (written by Alvin Lee). In addition, the band presents two additional unique live tracks on the album, including one with the legendary American blues and rock legend Michael Katon! The album is very well received, as evidenced by the many positive reviews in music magazines and on various music websites.
