TREExhibiton – rolling down the woods

An interactive experience exhibition for the entire family

Did you know?

Trees have existed on earth for more than 390 million years – humans have only been around for 200.000 years. What's more, a 20-metre-high tree supplies 5-10 people with oxygen every day - and incidentally, 400 litres of water are evaporated through its leaves.

Exciting, isn't it?

It's even more exciting that all these facts are presented using wooden marble runs and your visitors can playfully discover 6 essential reasons why we need and love trees.

I HAVE BEEN

Overview of the interactive marble runs:

1

1. Oxygen Producer & Carbon Storage

Trees are living miracles - in this marble run you can see what a single tree can do. A tree produces 10.000 litres of oxygen every day and stores carbon in its roots. Will the ball make it all the way to the treetop, or will it end down at the roots? What a fun way to discover how photosynthesis works.

A TREE IS REALLY PRODUCTIVE,
ISN'T IT?

2. Dust filter

Through its leaves or needles, a tree can filter up to 100 kilogrammes of dust from the air per year. For a reason they are known as the "green lungs" of our cities. Follow the path of dirt and dust particles along the marble run. The leaves are binding the dust and when it's raining, the bark is heading it into the ground. Finally, you can breathe in perfectly clean air – simply wonderful!

3. Habitat

An estimated 6.700 animal species live on trees and in the woods. Trees offer nesting places, food, shelter and protection for a variety of creatures, ranging from tiny insects to large predators. This marble run shows you which different animals have their home in a tree. Follow the ball and find birds, squirrels, spiders, ants, insects, badgers and many more.

4. Food source

Mhmm ... do you also like eating off trees? Berries, fruits and nuts are not only delicious for humans but also for forest dweller. Many of them feed on seeds, fruits, buds and leaves or need the nectar and pollen of various blossoms. This marble run requires a lot of skills! Let the ball roll through the woods, passing the variety of natural foods a forest provides, making your mouth water for berries, mushrooms and nuts.

WOODS ARE SO APPETISING; AREN'T THEY?

5. A place for activities / relaxation

A walk in the woods is very relaxing. Physical activity and the beautiful surroundings help to make us feel better. Here you can find peace, let your soul soar freely and recharge your batteries. Not only can it be beneficial to our immune system, it's also a place to experience a lot of adventures. Like on our marble run: the ball starts in the tree house, where you can devise great plans. It passes fragrant grasses and green bushes until reaching the finishing line at the delicious mushrooms.

HEALTHY
WOODS, AREN'T THEY?

6. Wood, construction and firewood supplier

Wood is an important renewable building material. This is one of the reasons why more and more wood is being used for construction. However wood is not only used to build entire houses or make furniture. Even the paper we write on was a tree once. Trees grow at different speeds, as you can see on this marble run made of different types of woods. The ball rolls over the course into the playhouse. There it is really cosy and warm because it is heated with firewood.
